

Franckiewicz takes oath, praises state's progress

BY DENA BISNETTE
Incoming District 46 State Senator Victor J. Franckiewicz Jr. of Bay St. Louis has praised a new attitude in Mississippi which he says makes him "excited to be a part of the senate."

Franckiewicz, whose last political office was a four-year term as mayor of Bay St. Louis, took his oath of office Wednesday afternoon at the Hancock County Courthouse.

His mother, Frances Franckiewicz, held the bible during the ceremony as Lt. Governor Brad Dye presided.

"I'm very pleased to have Vic as a member of the senate," he said, adding that he conducted a personal meeting with the former mayor earlier this week and that the discussion, scheduled for 30 minutes, lasted about an hour and a half.

"There were several things I found in that meeting that I had heard about Vic and it verified them for me," Dye said. "He's intelligent, honest, and I don't mean it just in the sense of honesty but that he's honest about his feelings and honest about what he wants to do."

He called Franckiewicz "a real human being" and said "he has a bright future in the senate."

Franckiewicz had to interrupt a standing ovation from members of his family and a group of supporters in the Hancock County Courthouse before he could speak.

He first thanked his campaign workers.

"A good and capable government is based on good and capable people, and with the good and capable people in this district we should do well," Franckiewicz said.

He urged people to keep active in state politics and praised the involvement of the public in the changes taking place now, including the educational reforms he has said would be one of his top priorities upon taking office.

"There is more change in Mississippi going on now than any time since the Civil War," Franckiewicz added.

He gave partial credit for the climate of change to a government which now includes many officials who "have moved up through the ranks."

"It's a whole different attitude," the new senator added. "Now it's about where Mississippi should be going and not where Mississippi should be staying."

Franckiewicz succeeds Gene Taylor, who resigned the District 46 seat last month after his election to the Fifth District Congressional seat left vacant by the death of Rep. Larkin Smith in an Aug. 13 plane crash.

Taylor was unable to attend the swearing in ceremony but was represented by his wife, Margaret Taylor.

SHOPLIFTING ARRESTS

Two Gulfport women have been arrested by Waveland and Bay St. Louis Police and charged with shoplifting.

Willie Clark Polk, 30, and Glenda Jean Smith, 44, were arrested Tuesday afternoon by Waveland Officer James Goss after he was dispatched to investigate a suspicious person and possible shoplifting complaint made by the Circle K convenience store in Waveland.

When stopped by Goss, the women claimed they had no identification. While checking one of their purses for identification, the officer discovered three cartons of cigarettes allegedly taken from the Circle K, according to Officer David Stepro.

A search of the vehicle turned up $462 of merchandise, including clothing, a shower curtain, shoes and cologne, apparently taken from various stores in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Gulfport, Stepro said.

Waveland has charged Polk with shoplifting, an improper tag and driving with a suspended driver's license. They have charged Smith with shoplifting.

Bay Police arrested the pair at Waveland Police station later that afternoon and charged them with two counts of shoplifting each. They both are incarcerated in Hancock County Justice Facility on $1,000 bonds.

CORNER ARREST

A Bay St. Louis man has been charged with multiple offenses stemming from an altercation at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets.

Bay Policemen E.J. Favre and Richard Hannah arrested Troy Saucier, 26, #27 Sycamore St., shortly before midnight Sunday after responding to a complaint about a fight at "the corner."

When the officers arrived at the scene they were told that Saucier had discharged a firearm in the MCM Club, a bar located at the now notorious intersection, according to Detective Tom Burleson.

"He decided to fight the policemen," Burleson said. He has been charged with four counts of felony assault on a police officer, one count of felony carrying a concealed weapon, one count of disturbing the peace, two counts of resisting arrest.

He also is charged with two counts of escape. After being handcuffed, Saucier opened the squad car door and tried to run. He attempted to escape a second time by jumping from the moving vehicle while being transported to jail, Burleson said.

Saucier also has been charged by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department with two counts of assaulting a police officer.

At an initial court appearance Monday, Saucier is being held in Hancock County Justice Facility in lieu of $52,500 total in bonds for all charges.

Waveland Police assisted in the arrest.

Terry Owen, 28, 802 Waveland Ave. was arrested Friday evening after being discovered by Bay St. Louis Patrolman E.J. Favre inside a 1985 Trans Am at Coast-Lane on Highway 90.

Owen has been charged with grand larceny. His bond has been set at $5,000.

Anti-drug abuse spokesman featured at local schools

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Three school systems have pooled resources to sponsor seven appearances by nationally known drug abuse educator JeVon Thompson.

Thompson, spokesman for "It's OK To Say No!", will address students at Bay High School, Gulfview Elementary, Hancock North Central and Our Lady Academy Dec. 4-7.

"Parents Are The Answer" will be presented at the Hancock County Fairgrounds building Tuesday, Dec. 5 at 7 p.m. All parents and interested individuals are encouraged to attend.

Bay St. Louis Drug-Free Schools coordinator Gloria Dean heard Thompson speak at a state Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) convention in Jackson. Dean, and the students who accompanied her, were impressed by the former drug-user's dynamic and entertaining style of conveying a strong warning against drugs.

A professional drummer for more than 13 years, Thompson performed at Carnegie Hall and served an apprenticeship with the Duke Ellington Band. While associated with the Luther Allison Blues Band, he performed with Mick Jagger, Marvin Gaye and Sha Na Na.

By his admission, he was also a drug user during those 13 years. He was one of the first students in his high school to smoke marijuana, and by graduation, had sampled every other available drug, including heroin.

Upon earning a bachelor's degree in psychology, he toured the United States on the rock music circuit—experiencing and witnessing the effects of drug abuse.

His mother died as a result of alcohol abuse and his brother from a heroin overdose. His stories of these and other experiences have been featured in televised specials with Oprah Winfrey, Peter Jennings and on ABC's "All My Children."

Arson destroys stolen pick-up

BY DENA BISNETTE

No arrests have been made yet in the theft of a pick-up truck from a Bay St. Louis resident, but what is left of the vehicle has been recovered.

According to Hancock County Fire Marshal Jay Marsh, the truck was found on Thursday morning when someone spotted the burning vehicle parked under the Bayou LaCroix Bridge on Highway 603.

East Hancock Volunteer Fire Department was called to extinguish the flames at about 3 a.m.

An hour and a half later, authorities contacted the truck's owner, who told them that he didn't know the vehicle was gone but, after checking, reported that his wife's car had also been broken into, Marsh stated.

He told them he had last seen the truck at about midnight, as he was closing up his house before going to bed. The home is located on Ballentine Street.

Marsh explained that the vehicle was a 1977 Chevrolet and was covered only by liability insurance, ruling out the possibility of arson to collect insurance.

The destruction of the truck is being regarded as a fourth-degree arson, the fire marshal added.

He said the cause of the fire had not yet been determined, but it was started in the cab of the truck.

The owner of the vehicle is offering a $500 reward for the arrest of the person who stole and burned the pick-up.

He described the truck as being dark green with white trim and having running lights on the cab. The tag read "DeNeros".

A flyer the owner gave to Marsh also includes the statement, "If you did it, pay restitution before someone turns you in and I won't press charges."

The truck owner stated that other items discovered missing the night the truck was stolen include an Alert brand C.B. radio, a 20-foot galvanized chain, safety glasses and tapes.

He asks that anyone with information about the matter call him at 466-2992.

High-speed chase ends in death of Bay man

BY D.C. HARVILL

A high-speed chase in Bay St. Louis Saturday evening ended in a one-car accident that claimed the life of a Bay man.

Christopher J. Bell, 23, a resident of Good Street, died when the car in which he was a passenger failed to negotiate a curve, striking a telephone pole and a culvert.

According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, the 1985 Ford Mustang, driven by Mark D. Kidd of Waveland, had been clocked by Bay St. Louis Police going 70 miles per hour in a 25-mile per hour zone.

"He apparently sped up when the police began pursuing him," Peterson said.

The car left the road at the intersection of Wolfe Street, traveled along the ditch until it sideswiped the telephone pole. It then spun around coming to rest against a driveway near LaSalle Drive.

Bell was pronounced dead at Hancock Medical Center.

Because the accident occurred outside the city limits, it is being investigated by the sheriff's office.

The accident is still under investigation and will be presented to the January 1990 Grand Jury, according to Peterson.

"There is a good chance charges will be filed (against Kidd by the county)," the sheriff said.

Investigator Nathan Hoda is in charge of the investigation, with assistance from Deputy Harold Heine Jr.

Kidd has been charged by Bay St. Louis with speeding, reckless driving and failure to yield to blue lights, according to Bay Police Detective Tom Burleson.

Plastics must be recycled

The humorist Will Rogers is quoted as saying: "Let's all hang together or we will surely hang separately."

It is beginning to appear that unless we hang together and find ways and means to deal with the pile up of plastic waste we'll end up in the heap.

Plastics certainly have their place. Last year 18 billion disposable diapers went into the nation's waste. And think of the mountains of plastic milk jugs being tossed daily and the soda pop bottles as well as the endless array of plastic-packaged food stuff.

We do, indeed, need our plastics, and we need more research on what to do with the empties.

The 'poo poo choo-choo' has told us we can't get rid of waste by railroading it into another state. Nor can we float it out to sea on barges. These plastics are ours to keep. The land fills are overloaded, many are being closed. Should we try sending them to outer space? Mars? Jupiter? Heavens forbid!

A ban on plastics is unthinkable.

able. Why lose all those conveniences and go back to washing milk bottles, subscribing to Tidy Diddy?

Recycling could be the answer (they tell me some carpet yarn is being made of plastics). Cheer up! Something will come up. We still have Yankee ingenuity.

But in the meantime, can we help? How about using a lesser amount of plastic for awhile, like buying produce packed in glass containers?

Things like olives, jelly, preserved fruits, etc. How about getting together with public officers and others and try to work out a system for plastic waste pickups, pickups that would reach the recycle plants promptly, pickups frequent and regular?

Sure that will cost money. Where is the money coming from? Any suggestions? Sales tax? Government grants? Add the cost on to the utility bills? Don't just sit there. Let's think of something constructive to do. Let's put the plastic in a basket.

Wal-Mart Associates give to charities

Waveland Wal-Mart Store Associates raised approximately $3,000 recently for the "Children's Miracle Network."

The group raised contributions for the charity by renting spaces to local residents for a crafts fair held at the store. The associates also had a bake sale with items they had baked.

Money donated to the "Children's Miracle Network" goes to the area's children's hospital.

"We are very proud of those associates who are always willing to help those who are less fortunate," store manager Joey Vick said.

Last year the Wal-Mart Corporation, nation-wide, contributed more than $3 million to the "Network."

The local store also is collecting can foods to help the Hancock County Food Pantry fill its shelves for the holidays.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

JeVon Thompson, a nationally known spokesman for 'It's OK to Say No!' to fight drug abuse, is scheduled to lecture students of Bay High School, Gulfview, Hancock North Central and Our Lady Academy.

On Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Thompson will make his presentation for parents, 'Parents Are The Answer' at the Hancock County Fairgrounds Building, Longfellow Road.

Thompson is being co-sponsored by the Hancock County and Bay St. Louis-Waveland school districts. I need not mention the drug problems our youths face today, yes, even in our local community.

Thompson, a former rock and roller and drug user, is a nationally known and a much sought after speaker, and gives an entertaining, hard look at America's drug culture.

It is a credit to our two school districts which have pooled their resources in obtaining a speaker such as Thompson.

I hope there will be a large number of parents in attendance at the Fairgrounds Tuesday night for Thompson's presentation.

I have mentioned before the importance of Shopping at Home in my column, as this is very important in any community.

There will be a Downtown Bay St. Louis Christmas in the Bay on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

A Downtown Merchants' Open House will be from 5 to 8 p.m., along with a Court Street Lumiere Lighting at 5:30 p.m., followed by Community Caroling at 6 p.m.

The above is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Business Association.

On Wednesday of next week, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Hancock Bank will sponsor a Merchants' Christmas Showing at the Hancock County Fairground Building.

This is to give you an opportunity of finding out many of the items offered by local merchants and gives the merchants an opportunity of showing you their wares.

Before you buy any item, I hope you will Shop at Home first.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Cotton, soybean checkoff program authorized in agriculture action

Senator Thad Cochran praised Senate passage of a bill for cotton and soybean checkoff programs.

The Agricultural Promotion Programs Act of 1989 allows producers of cotton, soybeans and five other commodities to conduct referendums on assessments, or checkoffs, for research and promotion of that commodity and its byproducts.

Under the checkoff systems, farmers pay an assessment, a certain amount per pound or bushel, for the research and promotion programs.

In addition to cotton and soybeans, major crops in Mississippi, other checkoffs are authorized for pecans, mushrooms, potatoes, honey and limes.

The act, co-sponsored by Senator Cochran and Senator Wyche Fowler (D-Ga.), also provides for changes to existing marketing orders for eggs, peanuts and Vidalia onions.

Cochran, a senior member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said the "farmer self-help initiatives" should help strengthen farm income from the marketplace and reduce dependence on government assistance.

"By enabling producers to develop, finance and carry out nationally-coordinated programs of research, promotion and consumer information, markets will be strengthened and expanded," he commented.

He pointed out the new act "is strongly supported by numerous state and national producer organizations. It provides an excellent opportunity for agricultural producers to help themselves at no cost to the government."

In addition to providing for farmer referendums in each commodity, the bill caps administrative costs at five percent, keeps 50 percent of the funds in each participating state and would be administered by the farmers involved with oversight by USDA.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Common Cause plays significant role in state

A few years back, a state legislator took the House floor and attacked an ethics bill because, as he said, it had the "muddy tracks of Common Cause all over it."

Up until a few years ago, it was commonplace for state legislators to speak of Common Cause in tones which hinted that the citizens' lobbying organization was something sinister, if not subversive.

But when the Legislature over Common Cause's opposition twice tried and failed to get voter approval for constitutional amendments weakening Section 109—the conflict of interest provision—legislators gained a healthy respect for the lobby group.

Now it can be said that the "tricks" of Common Cause are visible on some of the most progressive laws that have been implemented in Mississippi the past decade or so—open meetings, open records, ethics of public officials, financial disclosure, county unit system and lobbyist reforms.

What's rather remarkable is that Common Cause has been able to exert far greater influence on public interest issues in relation to its relatively small numbers statewide than almost any organization in the state.

Common Cause can claim only a little over 600 members in Mississippi, and it has never been able to get more than 75 of them together in one place at one time.

But as Secretary of State Dick Molpus said of CC recently: "It's a 'Who's Who of activism' in the forefront of the battle for a more responsive government."

These are people who keep up closely with open government issues, who speak out on the issues, contact legislators, write letters to editors and supply background information on public interest issues to their local newspapers.

Local units of Common Cause have been watchdogs over compliance with the Open Meetings law by local governmental bodies. In a case against the Hinds County Board of Supervisors that took seven years to pursue, Common Cause won a major victory for open meetings in the state Supreme Court earlier this year.

Significantly, the state's high court recognized Common Cause as an organization with status to sue a public body for non-compliance with state law and held that the Hinds County board would have to pay attorneys' fees.

CC state director Roberta Madden said the lobby group will work with the Society of Professional Journalists and other media groups to seek strengthening of the state's Open Meetings Law in the 1990 Legislature.

Topping CC's 1990 legislative agenda will be enactment of a mail-in voter registration law which is being spearheaded by Secretary of State Molpus.

"There is no good reason for putting up road blocks to prevent handicapped people and others out there from registering to exercise a citizen's most basic right—voting," said Common Cause state president Ken Wooten of Water Valley.

The citizens lobby group will push for passage of a state law to prohibit the Mississippi Public Service Commission from holding private ex parte (one party in a controverted case) meetings in pending utility cases.

Disclosure of such private meetings between the PSC and officials of Mississippi Power & Light Co. in connection with the 1985 multi-million dollar Grand Gulf Nuclear Plant rate case had been revealed in the August conspiracy trial of Texas oilman Travis Ward.

Common Cause will keep the vigil for a statewide referendum on calling a constitutional convention, which Wooten contends "the people still say it is an issue, while the Legislature is the one who says it is no longer an issue."

The amendment process of rewriting the 1890 Constitution will never be effective, Common Cause maintains. "If you don't take the whole constitution under consideration at one time, it will take forever and it will still be a patchwork," Wooten declared.

Also on the CC legislative agenda is legislation to require only a simple majority rather than 60 percent to approve school bond issues. The lobby group said the present 60 percent requirement allows a small minority to block vitally needed school improvements.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Thanks, Dr. Boyd

Thank you Dick Boyd for a job well done.

Since coming to Mississippi in 1983 you have been our education leader. You will be missed.

You changed the level of education debate. Now, we don't ask "whether" to improve education, but "how."

Mississippians will see your contributions in years to come as our high school graduates become our state's leaders.

We will remember the professional and dignified approach you employed in carrying out your duties.

The Mississippi Economic Council, too, appreciates the time you spent with us. Not only were your contributions to our Leadership Mississippi program significant, but you always managed to treat with concern and respect the interests of Mississippi's business community.

In your successor we hope to find many of your attributes.

We will miss you, and we wish you well.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

Accountability increases investment in education

Over the past year, one thing has become crystal clear—Mississippians are dedicated to improving education. There is no argument about that.

One way we can lift schools to new heights is by making the system more accountable.

When you buy a car, you expect it to run. When you hire a carpenter, you expect him to bring his tools. And when you send your children to school, you expect them to learn to the best of their abilities.

You have got to be able to check the quality of the work or the product, or in this case the quality of the school. It is like a friend of mine once said: "If you didn't have a score board, not many people would go to a football game."

Accountability is a cornerstone of Mississippi's BEST—Better Education for Success Tomorrow. Mississippi's BEST would put up a score board for our schools.

Under the Better Schools and Lighthouse Schools programs, we would reward schools that demonstrate improvement so that they continue to get better and better. And successful programs that make these schools excellent will serve as models for schools throughout Mississippi.

But when the score board shows that a school fails to meet minimum standards, the Impairment and Conservatorship Program would hold their feet to the fire until they do improve. People expect that, and they deserve it. That is accountability.

Schools cannot be blamed for everything. Some kids are just not ready to learn when they hear that first kindergarten bell ring. And, unfortunately, when children start behind they usually stay behind.

We want to change that. Under the Early Childhood Screening and Parent Assistance Program, we will screen every three-year-old for problems, and help parents, schools and the community to do something about it.

The Failure Prevention Program will further require school districts to start programs in the first grade to prevent students from falling behind.

Discipline is a real problem in many schools. How can we expect students to learn when teachers have to spend too much time trying to make some kids behave, while others are trying to study. Under the Student and Parent Discipline program, parents would be involved in the solution when their child steps out of line. That is also accountability.

Accountability not only helps us watch where our money goes when it comes to education, it also keeps tabs on the results we achieve when we invest that money.

Making sure that our dollars are well-spent is what Mississippi's BEST is all about.

Waveland Players to produce comedies

A program of two one-act comedies is being presented by the Waveland Players, opening on Friday.

The first, a farce by Anton Chekhov entitled "A Marriage Proposal," takes place in Russia at the turn of the century.

Ivan Vasilyitch Lomov, splendidly attired in evening clothes in the afternoon, visits his neighbor, Stepan Stepanovich Tchubukov, to ask for the hand of Tchubukov's daughter, Natalia, much to Tchubukov's delight. Polite conversation turns into tantrums on the part of the two lovers while Tchubukov paces and threatens to hang himself.

But all ends well, with promises of future marital bliss spiced with lively quarrels.

Larry Heller portrays Lomov, courtly when he isn't complaining about his many ailments or shrieking at Natalia and her father. Diane Thomas plays Natalia, moving from demure to explosive in the course of a few minutes, and Vermont Smith plays her father, a man whose neighborliness and patience are tested to the limits.

The second comedy, "The Travelling Sisters" by John Kirkpatrick, is about a pair of lovable eccentrics who have a taste for exotic places but a purse that can't get them there. So they engage in annual make-believe voyages, complete with travel brochures and stock remedies.

The sisters, Beulah and Myrtle Sanderson, are played respectively by Barbara Jo Fitch and Sally Rodrique.

Rounding out the cast are the travel agency staff, played by Valerie Fisher and Thomas Toups; a nervous traveller with a baby carriage, played by Joyce Ohman; a banker, played by Noel Gillan; and the bank guard, Watkins, portrayed by a real-life detective, David Steece Sr.

Edith Back is directing "A Marriage Proposal" and Glenda Coss is directing "The Travelling Sisters." This production marks the directorial debuts for both women.

The plays will be produced at 8 p.m. on Dec. 1, 2, 8 and 9 at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue, with a matinee at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 3. Tickets, at $4 are available at the door.

Wusnack attends library conference

Prima Wusnack, director of the Hancock County Public Library System, recently attended the Mississippi Library Association's 1989 annual conference in Natchez, marking 80 years of the association working to establish and develop effective library service in the state.

Attended by members from all types of libraries across the state, the convention's theme, "Growing in Hard Ground," permeated all the workshops and conferences.

Wusnack participated in several workshops offered at the convention, including "Automating Small Libraries," "Time Management and Conducting Effective Meetings," "Yes, You can Write a Grant: Opportunities in the Arts and Humanities," and cataloging and technical services.

The keynote speaker at the event was the acclaimed deaf actress and Tony award-winning star Phyllis Frelich. She performed a monologue from the film Children of a Lesser God, which was partly based on her personal struggle for a fair chance in the face of discouraging odds.

The first general session of the convention included the third annual presentation of the MLA Authors Awards, with this year's recipients Ellen Douglas and Margaret Walker Alexander.

Slidell Little Theatre to present comedy

Opening night for the Slidell Little Theatre production of "Social Security" is Friday, Dec. 1 at Slidell Little Theatre by Bob Zepeda.

Anybody in the audience with a mother will have a chance to feel guilty—and laugh about it. "Social Security" is about two sisters, a country one and a city one, dominated by an 80-year-old mother who, by the end of the evening, throws away her walker and becomes the heroine of the play.

What accounts for such a remarkable transition? Come to Slidell Little Theatre and find out.

Blair Grush plays the city sister, Barbara Kahn, and Shirley Lan, who is Trudy Heyman, her suburban sister. Barbara and her husband David (Bob Hirsch) are trendy Manhattan artists who live in an elaborate East Side apartment.

Trudy and her accountant husband Martin (Myron Miller) live in Mineola with momma

(Sophie Greengrass, played by Rebecca King), the widow of a house painter who was once known as "the Rembrandt of Dinettes."

Sophie is a tyrant, who recently broke her hip trying to get to the head of the line at a Macy's white sale. Trudy and Martin have to rush to Buffalo to rescue their college student daughter from a fate worse than—well, actually she seems to be enjoying it. Anyway, they dump mom off in Manhattan, where she disrupts the comfortable lives of the art dealers.

The problem of caring for an aged, often difficult parent in poor health is one that many people can relate to. The difference in the case of "Social Security" is the introduction of the world-famous 98-year-old artist Maurice Koenig (Ivan Bier-nacki). Sophie and her grand-daughter have more in common than you would expect—but enough about the story. "Social Security" will be on stage at Slidell Little Theatre Dec. 1, 2, 8, 9, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m. each night. Call 641-0324 for reservations or information.

Free parenting classes held Mondays, Thursdays

Why do children act the way they do? What does it take to be a good parent? What do children really need?

These questions and much more are covered during a six-part parenting series held Mondays and Thursdays, 1 p.m.

until 3 p.m., at the Hancock County Youth Court building.

The free program is being jointly sponsored by Hancock County Extension Service and Hancock County Youth Court. For information, call Darlene Underwood, 467-5456 or Yvonne Landry, 467-7945.

Cadet James T. Wicktom has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer.

The summer curriculum consists of orientation on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four weeks, but cadets in the two-year ROTC program receive an additional two weeks of instruction in the development of air power and the contemporary Air Force.

The cadet is a student at the University of South Alabama, Mobile.

Wicktom is the son Albert A. and Sandra K. Wicktom of Pass Christian.

Big B posts record sales

Big B Inc. announced it has posted record sales for both the 38-week period and the third quarter ended Oct. 31. Sales rose 51.4 percent to $2,855,050,000 from $1,885,000 for the 38 weeks ended Oct. 31 for the third quarter compared to $89,876,000 from $8,515,000, an increase of 48.4 percent.

The sales increases were attributed by the acquisition of an 85-store drug chain in February, 1989.

The company reported a loss of $54,000 for the fiscal third quarter as compared to a gain of $11,000 in the prior year. The loss was primarily attributable to increasing costs and one-time expenses related to the recent acquisition.

For the 38 weeks net income declined 41.5 percent to $2,855,000 from $4,948,000 in the prior year. The prior year income included a $503,000 credit for the adjustment of deferred taxes.

The company's board of directors as an expression of confidence in Big B again approved a $0.04 per share dividend payable Dec. 15, 1989, to shareholders of record on Dec. 1, 1989.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Everyone knows the story in Genesis of Esau and how he sold his birthright for a "mess of pottage, bread and pottage of lentils." Economical lentils are a low price for a man's inheritance, but you may be sure that Esau dined well!

Famished after a day's hunting, so the Bible tells us, Esau came upon his brother Jacob preparing lentil soup, and sold his inheritance to him for a bowl of it!

Well, you don't have to sell your inheritance to cook up a good soup, do you? Yet, soup is as important a part of man's diet at the present time as it was in early days. There's scarcely a time of day or year when a bowl of soup isn't welcome, from steaming hot and hearty, to ice cold, according to the season and your tastes.

It's a sure bet that soups were among the first, if not the very first dishes man started to cook once he had mastered fire, and had made his first rudimentary cooking pots!

Every country, every cuisine has its own special soups, from simple to elegant. For many, many years, soup and bread were eaten mainly by the poor, who boiled up bones and scraps of vegetables in a pot full of water, when there was nothing better on hand to ease their hunger.

And, in the day of early colonial America, soupmaking was based upon optimism, as the results were unpredictable. The colonial housewife set her vegetables to boil in a pot of water, as she waited hopefully for her husband to bring home the meat after his daily hunting trip!

In more modern times, "Soup Kitchens" came into existence in the Great Depression, eating places staffed by charitable organizations, at which soup and bread were available to those in need. And, today, charitable organizations still feed those in need to the best of their ability with soup and bread meals, as well as other meals.

Soups of all sorts are among my favorite foods, from hearty vegetable or bean soups, to more delicate broths or cream soups. And, when I'm in a truly elegant mood, I like to cook:

OYSTER AND ARTICHOKE SOUP

1 quart oysters, drained, liquor (liquid) reserved
2 cans artichoke hearts, drained, quartered

1 stick butter or margarine
2 bunches green onions, chopped
2 ribs celery, chopped
1 quart chicken stock (or canned broth, or bouillon cubes and water, if you must)
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup half-and-half or milk
Cayenne pepper to your taste
1 Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
3 tsp. minced or chopped parsley

I prefer to use chicken stock for this soup, although you may substitute broth or bouillon from cubes; I also like to use evaporated milk and cream or half-and-half, instead of milk alone, as you may have a problem with curdling when using just milk.

I use the canned artichoke hearts, because, the fresh ones, besides being a great deal of work, tend to turn the soup a rather unpleasant grayish tone.

At any rate, melt the butter or margarine (I prefer butter for this) and saute the green onions, along with the celery, until soft. Add the artichoke hearts, then the stock and seasonings, cover and simmer for a few minutes.

Gradually add the oyster liquor (liquid) and the cream and milk, stirring until the mixture is smooth (I use a whisk). Add the oysters and simmer just until the edges of the oysters begin to curl, just three or four minutes at most. (You may prefer to chop the oysters; if you do, cut the time down a bit.)

And, I forgot to mention that if the artichoke hearts are large, cut them down more, so that they are just bite-sized, and will fit into the soup spoon.

I like to sprinkle more chopped parsley over as I serve the soup. Enjoy!

P.S. If too thin, reduce the soup down by cooking a bit longer; if needed, add a bit more cream. Some cooks like to add flour, and make a roux base—I prefer it this way.

How a child's personality is shaped, influenced

Each individual is unique and parents often wonder how their child got that way. Dr. Jerome Kagan, professor of developmental psychology at Harvard, says there are six conditions that make a difference in how a child develops.

1. Biological temperament. Although genetic or prenatal in origin, this basic temperament can be improved through the gentle and consistent efforts of parents.

2. Birth order. Because the family itself is different with the addition of each child, birth order affects how a child develops.

Among middle-class Americans, first borns are generally more responsible and try to control their environment. Later borns are more pragmatic, less idealistic and more rebellious.

3. Parental behavior. Infants need a variety of stimulating experiences. Parents can use praise and guidance to teach values. Because we live in a society where children make no significant economical contribution, Kagan feels children need reassurance that parents value them.

4. Role model identification. A child equates himself with the qualities he perceives in his parents. The child can identify with his socio-economic or ethnic group as well.

5. Successes and failures. Success in school and peer group acceptance affects how a child develops. A small school offers a greater chance of success than a very large school.

6. Chance and history. Chance vents such as living in a town of less than 50,000 have positive effects. Events and conditions of society also affect the child's development. Examples of historical events include world wars, economical depression, Vietnam War and computer age.

Of the six factors Kagan considers important, two directly involve parents, but parents have far less control over the other four factors.

Parents should be loving and invest a great deal of effort and care in the rearing of their children while realizing that the growing child has many other influences in his development.

State Health Department provides day care info

Over the past year a Child Care Information Network, available through Mississippi Employment Security Commission's 76 offices statewide, has provided job-seeking parents information on licensed day care centers.

"This was the first program of its kind in the nation," said MESCC Executive Director Linda Ross Aldy. "We are tying the job hunt and the need for child care together."

The new program was established through the point efforts of the Governor's Office of Children and Youth, Mississippi Department of Health, licensed day care operators and MESCC.

Women now comprise more than 40 percent of the workforce and more than 60 percent of those women are married mothers of children under age six, according to the U.S.

Bureau of Labor Statistics. By the year 2000, women will hold about 47 percent of the nation's jobs.

"This growing trend of working mothers leads to increased need for quality child care. The employment service is a logical outlet for sharing that information," Aldy said.

Mississippi State Department of Health, the licensing agency for day care centers, provides up-to-date lists of day care centers that meet licensing requirements.

Anyone can request a computer printout of the centers in any areas of the state. The printout will show the name, address and telephone number of each center, the number of children for which the center is licensed and whether it is privately owned or a church-run center.

Toll free line offered for disabled library patrons

Blind or physically handicapped library patrons can now benefit from a new toll free number for access to services.

The Mississippi Library Commission, which provides braille reading materials, books on tape, and play-back equipment to blind or physically handicapped persons, installed the WATS line in late July.

Sharman Smith, assistant director of library operations, believes the new in-state 800 number will be a plus for its users.

"We wanted a method that would allow patrons to get our services as quickly as possible with little hassle," she said. "The best way was to install the WATS line. The service comes at no cost to the user."

More than 33,000 blind or physically handicapped persons in Mississippi are eligible to receive services. Presently, about 10 percent of that total take advantage of the library materials offered through the Mississippi Library Commission.

The toll free phone number is 1-800-446-0892. Smith encourages patrons to use the line whenever necessary. "We want out patrons to have immediate access to assistance by the library staff," Smith said. "this method just makes everything much easier."

Pat Beard, manager of Services for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, said the response has been tremendous so far. Forty-three inquiries have been received from Hancock County.

"Since we mailed our newsletter last month with the phone number included, the phone has been ringing off the wall. This line will allow us to personalize the service for our patrons, especially those who couldn't afford to make the long distance calls in the past."

SPORTS

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1989-1B

TIME OUT

By Dena Bisnette

Skateboarding is starting to be recognized as a sport in this area, with another competition scheduled this weekend.

There is talk about building a skateboarding park for the youngsters involved in this sport, but even before that is done, more stunt ramps and similar items are needed.

Cycles Plus and Hancock County Recreation Association, who co-sponsor competitions, are looking for donations of materials and maybe even labor to build some of the equipment.

It doesn't seem to matter where the ramps are placed, because the skaters will find them. I have seen these kids practicing in an empty parking lot on Sundays and it's obvious that there are quite a few who are too accomplished to fit into a beginner category, which shows me that the enthusiasm is there.

The skateboard and freestyle bicycle competition Saturday at the Valena C. Jones Gym. Competition starts at 6 p.m., with registration beginning an hour before the contest.

Fees are $20 for team registration and $5 for individual skate or bicycle entries. Safety equipment is required.

Spectators are welcome and fees for them are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

For information, contact Cycles Plus, 467-1706, or Hancock County Recreation Association, 467-0470.

Cycles Plus Bicycle Club has an off-road ride scheduled for Sunday. Call Cycles Plus at 467-1706 for more information.

Several Bay St. Louis area residents were tops in the Space Station Half Marathon and 5K Run/Walk at Stennis Space Center Saturday.

Brian Brooks of Bay St. Louis, a 19-year-old St. Stanislaus student, was first overall in the male division of the 5K with a time of 16:56. Marty Herndon, also of Bay St. Louis, came in first in the walk with 42:11.

The local ladies were the stars of the half marathon, with Cheryl Kennedy of Bay St. Louis placing second in the 25-29 females' division with 1:39.06. In the 30-34 division, Lisa Wyszewski of Bay St. Louis placed second at 1:47.03 and Cynthia Wischow of Pass Christian placed third at 2:14.47.

There are a couple more runs coming up in December, some of the last of the 36 races hosted each year by Gulf Coast Running Club. During Long Beach Merchants Appreciation Day on Saturday, there will be a two-mile run beginning at 9 a.m. and a one-mile run beginning at 9:30 a.m. The event starts in Pineville Plaza.

On Dec. 9 at 9 a.m., the fifth annual Jingle Bell Run will take off from Hardy Court Shopping Center in Gulfport. It's a 6K, and if you're anywhere along the route, you should be able to hear them because most of the participants put bells on their shoes for this one. La Leche League is sponsor for the event, which also includes a one-mile health run.

If you're newer at running than the people who are willing to travel all over the coast to participate in races, then you'll be happy to hear that there's a run coming up right here at home on Dec. 16.

It's the annual Pass to Bay run, which is sponsored by Hancock Bank. It's a 6.4 mile course from Henderson Point across the US-90 bridge into Bay St. Louis, with the finish line in front of Dock of the Bay.

For information on pre-registration for both events, contact Lindo Sullivan of Gulf Coast Running Club at 832-6071.

Former Hancock North Central Hawk Brett Favre has set a new total offensive record for the University of Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagles.

Favre, a veteran quarterback in his junior year, has gained 6,252 yards in total offense, passing the 5,966 mark made by previous record holder Reggie Collier from 1979 to 1982.

He has also broken most of the school's passing records, which provides a bright spot in a mostly unexciting USM season.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you play again next year, Brett.

Third and final registration for Bay Youth Basketball will be Saturday at Bay Junior High. Boys and girls between six and 13 years old may participate. Registration fee is $10 and is due by Dec. 4.

Volunteer coaches, referees and score keepers are also needed, as well as help in concessions. For further information, call league director Robert Williams at 467-6214.

By the way, I received no response regarding my request for information about active pro athletes who started their careers in Hancock County. I take the lack of response to mean there aren't any at this time, but let's keep hoping, because with the talent here, the future looks good!

If you wish to mail us items for inclusion in Time Out, address them to P.O. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520. Or, call us at 467-5474. Deadline is Tuesday afternoon for the following Thursday's paper.

Mestayer finishes in top 10, heading for South American

BY DENA BISNETTE
Mallory Mestayer of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club has advanced to the South American Optimist Championships April 7-15 in Guayaquil, Ecuador, by sailing into sixth place overall at the National Mid-winter Optimist Championships.

Mestayer qualified by being in the top 10 finishers in the midwinters, which were hosted by Southern Yacht Club in New Orleans and sailed on Lake Pontchartrain this past weekend.

Her trip to the South American competition will be her second. She competed in Peru last year.

Out of the 74 children who entered the competition, 13 were either members of the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club or the Pass Christian Yacht Club.

Other local sailors and their finishing rank included Sanders Kane, BWYC, 16; Caroline Weems, BWYC, 28; John Dane, PCYC, 29; Chad Renken, BWYC, 30; Alan Uram, BWYC, 32; Marcus Eagan, BWYC, 41;

Scott Renken, BWYC, 47; Oliver Penneguy, PCYC, 54; Sarah Taylor, BWYC, 56; Joann Mestayer, BWYC, 57; Kippy Chamberlain, BWYC, 65; and Sally Dane, PCYC, 73.

The next two optimist competitions include the Sugar Bowl Regatta at Southern Yacht Club Dec. 16 and 17 and the Orange Bowl Regatta in Miami, Fla., Dec. 27-30.

PRC hosting Coke Classic

While many students at Pearl River Community College are already eyeing the Christmas holidays, the school's basketball squads still have a good bit of work ahead.

The men's team, with a 2-4 record, still faces six games, including three at home in its own Pearl River Coke Classic tonight and Friday, while the 2-4 Lady Wildcats have four games slated.

The men will go into Thursday's opening of the tournament coming off two losses in the Mississippi Delta Tournament, where they fell 104-77 to Delta and 85-82 to Hinds.

Despite the scores, Peter Georgian, PRC's coach, said the team played well. Delta was just almost unstoppable, hitting 64 percent of its shots from the floor.

"Everything they put up went in," Georgian said.

Against Hinds, the Wildcats led in most statistical areas, out-rebounding Hinds 34-26 and getting six steals to Hinds' four.

But the thing that hurt the club in both games was turnovers. The Wildcats, who have hurt themselves all year in this area, gave the ball away 22 times in each outing.

"Turnovers, that's been our life story," Georgian said. "We're making dumb, dumb mistakes."

Without the turnovers, he said, the club can play with any of the teams it has faced.

"The biggest problem we've got is we gamble too much," he said, pointing out the team tries to force things too often.

Polly Kirkland, whose team will play three of its last four on the road, including Thursday's game with Patrick Henry in the Gulf Coast Classic, said her club is also turning the ball over too much.

The team has been averaging 22 turnovers per game, while Kirkland would like to see that number fall to 14 or less.

The team played well in the first half of its last outing, a 86-79 home loss to Itawamba, which went into the game with a 6-0 record. The Lady Cats led at halftime 36-33 thanks to a good effort by the guards. But, Kirkland said the defense fell off in the second half, letting Itawamba off the hook.

The team is also struggling in rebounding with the loss of Edith Pedesclaux to a knee injury which will keep her out until after Christmas.

"Rebounding is going to be tough until we get her back," Kirkland said.

The team is being paced in scoring by Charzes Silas, who is scoring 24 points per game and pulling in a team leading 10.5 rebounds.

Lacoste, Scobel named to all-star, state teams

Pearl River Community College, which was 5-5 on the year, had 14 of its football players receive post-season honors. Four were selected to play in the all-star game in Booneville Dec. 2, and 10 were named to all-state teams.

Jason Dugas, a 5-11, 240-pound offensive guard from St. Martinville, La.; Chris Lacoste, a 6-4, 245-pound defensive end from Hancock North Central; Will Russell, a 6-1, 239-pound defensive tackle from East Marion; and Chris Watts, a 5-11, 270-pound offensive tackle from Hattiesburg; were all picked to play in the all-star game.

Dugas and Lacoste were also named to the first team all-state squad, while Watts was named to the second unit and Russell received honorable mention.

Michael Toefield, a 5-11, 215-pound running back from Independence, La., who rushed for a school record 1,307 yards; and Malter Scobel, a 6-1, 190-pound punter and place kicker from Bay St. Louis were also second team selections.

Alternative lures for cold water

If you limit your cold water bass fishing strictly to deep water jigs, you're usually missing a lot of alternative opportunities that often yield some excellent action.

Spinnerbaits, crankbaits, even topwater chuggers and poppers can, at times, be used in cold water.

"The overall key is the weather itself," explains Johnson Outboards Pro Staff angler Fredda Lee, who fishes year-round, regardless of the weather conditions.

"Very often, winter weather is broken by several warm, sunny days between fronts," she says. "These types of days can cause bass to move into more shallow water and make them more active."

"You still have to retrieve your lures slowly and deliberately, but sometimes the activity level of bass on days like this can be a pleasant surprise."

For example, says the attractive Johnson Outboards pro, bass may be enticed to hit a topwater popper or chugger fished over shallow moss, even in the dead of winter. Likewise, spinnerbaits and crankbaits can often draw strikes around rocky riprap.

"Vegetation usually holds bass year-round," says Lee. "It provides cover, warmer water, and food, so the bass don't really need to leave. They're just not as active."

"Instead of really popping a plug across the top of a mossbed, work it very slowly with a lot of pauses. You may need to switch to a smaller lure and make repeated casts, but don't ever start thinking a bass isn't there."

Lee works crankbaits in the same deliberate manner. She likes to fish points, stumpy flats, and boathouses with a diving plug that gets quickly to the bottom and then chugs and digs its way back to the boat.

"Stump flats can really be surprising," she notes,

"because they may hold winter bass even when the water depth is less than five feet. The most effective flats are those edged by a deeper channel the fish can use when the weather turns cold again."

"On a warm day, bass frequently move up onto a flat to feed, particularly in mid-afternoon after the sun has been out several hours."

"My lure choice here is a crankbait or spinnerbait worked carefully around the cover and bouncing off the stumps."

The spinnerbait term for this type of fishing is known as "slow-rolling," explains Lee, and does not mean rolling the lure over the cover. It refers to the spinnerbait blades, which rotate or "roll over" more slowly due to the slow retrieve.

Lee's winter spinnerbait choice is a single small willow left or Colorado blade model, either of which produces good vibration and flash.

Rock riprap, the stones placed along a shoreline to add support for roadways and bridges, are excellent winter fishing spots, according to the former-model-turned-angler. Bass move very shallow and close to the rocks to gain added warmth.

"Fish a crankbait or spinnerbait parallel to the riprap," Lee suggests, "and work very shallow depths. Pay particular attention to odd places in the rocks where logs or other cover may be present."

Johnson® and Evinrude® outboard lubricants from OMC SystemMatched® Parts and Accessories so far exceed the TC-W standards that they qualify for the higher TC-W II standards recently established by the National Marine Manufacturers Association (NMMA). To qualify for the TC-W II designation, outboard lubricants must pass stringent test for lubricity, detergency, pre-ignition tendencies, rust prevention, miscibility in gasoline and compatibility.

Young hunters must complete safety course to obtain license

By Traci M. Scott
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

The once colorful leaves are beginning to create a carpet of dull brown. Deer hunters, who have been in a hunting hibernation, sense this changing of the season and are responding to the call of the wild.

Obtaining a hunting license is not as simple as paying a fee. Effective this year, all applicants must show proof of Mississippi residency to purchase an in-state hunting license. For the second year young hunters must complete a hunter safety education course before they can purchase their license.

"This year all hunters are required to show proof of residency before they can buy an in-state hunting license," said Clark McMinn, conservation officer with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

McMinn said a recent national survey indicates Mississippi may be losing millions of dollars from out-of-state hunters illegally buying resident hunting licenses.

"Almost 25,000 non-resident Mississippi hunting licenses are sold yearly, but according to the survey nearly 90,000 non-residents said they hunted in the state," said McMinn.

There are four forms of identification that are acceptable; a driver's license, an identification card issued by the Department of Public Safety, a school or college identification card or a military identification card.

For residents who do not have any of the acceptable form of identification, special arrangements can be made with local conservation officers.

"This has caused some inconvenience for state sportsmen, but it is a small price to pay to hunt and fish in this great state," McMinn said.

Another law some young hunters may not be aware of is completion of a hunter education course before they can get their hunting license," said McMinn.

From October 1988 to October 1989, more than 20,000 people had completed the hunter safety course. More than 7,000 were certified through county extension offices.

"Interested people may register for the hunter safety course with their local county extension office," said Jim Yonge, 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. A minimum of six people is required before the class can be taught.

For more information about the hunter safety course, contact the local county extension office.

MISSISSIPPI ROADS

The restoration of an architectural landmark in Meridian, state members of a national motorcycle riding club and a pond dug entirely by hand near Carthage are featured on this week's "Mississippi Roads," Tuesday, Dec. 5, at 7:30 p.m. on Mississippi ETV. The program will be rebroadcast Sunday, Dec. 10 at 3:30 p.m.

The Meridian Opera House was opened in 1889 and was a mecca of social life in Meridian. It featured operas, vaudeville acts, minstrel shows and silent movies before it closed in 1927.

Lifelong Meridian resident Mary Erle Smith discusses the history of the opera house, and Elliott Street talks about the painstaking restoration project currently underway.

Next, "Roads" heads for the open road with two Mississippi chapters of the Godwin Road Riders Association, a nationwide motorcycle riding club.

State director Jim Hodge of Ocean Springs and club members Maralyn Becker and Bill Peterson of Columbia and Lloyd F. Posey of Prentiss discuss the activities of this group of motorcycle enthusiasts.

This week's "Mississippi Roadtrip" takes viewers to the Spillway station at the Ross Barnett Reservoir near Jackson. Spillway supervisor John Shirley discusses the purpose of the spillway.

"Mississippi Roads" concludes this week with a look at a hand-dug pond near Carthage. Gartha and Willie Ruth Sanders explain why they decided to build a hand-dug pond and how long it took them to complete it.

"Mississippi Roads" is underwritten by Chevron U.S.A. Inc. and Tower Loan of Mississippi, Inc.

WILDERNESS FIRES

What is left when the smoke clears from one of the most widespread wilderness fires in human memory?

"Nova" at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 5 on Mississippi ETV, explores the environmental consequences of the 1988 inferno that engulfed much of Yellowstone National Park and the surrounding area.

The 1988 fires may have been some of the worst in human memory, but nature has had eons of experience with such events. This "Nova" program, "Yellowstone's Burning Question," accompanies scientists who are studying the surprisingly rapid recovery from the blaze.

"Nova" may also be seen at 1 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 6.

Rocks defeat Pascagoula in soccer action

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw soccer team handily defeated a non-district opponent, Pascagoula, Monday night 3-1.

"The Rock-A-Chaw team played a much more organized and better quality game Monday night than last week against Long Beach," according to coach Mark Foley.

Last Tuesday, in the first district match of the season, the Rocks were downed by the Bearcats 4-1 in a hard-played contest. The Rocks "bounced back and proved that they have the ability to control the field against a traditional powerhouse, Pascagoula."

The contest's goals were scored by Brian Brooks, who opened the scoring for St. Stanislaus in the first half. The second half saw goals scored by David Jones of Pascagoula, David Eckers and Jonathan Compretta, both of St. Stanislaus. Trey Kidd and Brian Brooks both picked up an assist for the evening.

This victory improved St. Stanislaus' record to 2-1 for the season. The Rocks will be challenged by a local rival, Bay High, Friday night at home.

Coach Foley indicated that "the Rocks can really set the tone for further success in district play by defeating the Bay High Tigers."

In the junior varsity game, which preceded the varsity match, the Rocks downed the Pascagoula club 4-1. St. Stanislaus goals were scored by Darin Rose, who had three, and Stanley Chapman, who had one.

"The junior varsity team is a strong, well-balanced group who all have excellent skills and desire," according to Foley.

"They had some trouble with the Long Beach team, but they rebounded well from the 1-0 defeat last week. I expect that they shall be very successful if the intensity of play is maintained," Foley said.

The match against Bay High will commence with the junior varsity game at 5:30 p.m. to be followed by a youth league game during the intermission before the varsity match. The varsity kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

As a tribute to the Bay Waveland Youth Soccer League, all youth league players are invited to wear their uniforms to this hometown match. Youth players in uniform will be admitted free while adults will still pay the admission fee.

Youth Soccer featured between SSC games

A special night of soccer will be hosted by Bay Area Youth Soccer on Friday, Dec. 1 at St. Stanislaus Stadium.

At approximately 6:30 p.m., between the regular junior varsity and varsity high school soccer games, BAYS exhibition youth games will be held.

The games will be approximately 25 minutes long, with two games being held on the field at the same time. Four Under-8 teams will take part in the exhibition, playing two 10-minute halves.

In addition to the exhibition games, it will be youth player night, and any BAYS youth player Under-6 through Under-14, in BAYS uniform or in team groups with their coach, will be admitted free to the high school games that night.

St. Stanislaus will host Bay High in high school competition, with the junior varsity game starting at 5:30 p.m. and the varsity game beginning approximately 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

USM football earns $24.8 million for city

The results of a recent economic impact study of University of Southern Mississippi football home games indicates that the normal home schedule generates more than $24.8 million per year of new revenues for the Hattiesburg area.

This study was conducted by the College Football Association, in conjunction with the economic consulting firm of Pacey and Johnson. The study was based on a survey of USM's football fans during the 1987 football season and game attendance statistics supplied by USM.

An analysis of stadium expenditures that include tickets, concessions, and souvenirs indicated $3.7 million was spent by local residents while out-of-towners spent $3.6 million.

A further breakdown illustrated that of the $3.6 million spent by out-of-towners, $3.1 million is expended by Mississippians and one-half million by out-of-state residents.

In fact, stadium expenses alone made up only 20 percent of the total expenditures of out-of-town fans during their trips to Hattiesburg; the remaining 80 percent was pumped into the local Hattiesburg business community.

"Certainly we feel that this study offers graphic evidence of the importance of The University of Southern Mississippi's athletic department's financial importance to the area business community," said Lou Marciani, newly-appointed Golden Eagle associate athletic director of external affairs.

"Future cooperative efforts between USM and area businesses can only lead to greater successes for the university and its athletic teams, as well as even greater financial returns to the surrounding area and its business community. We continue to take steps to achieve the high athletic standards we desire, and we continue to seek support from our business community, support we feel will be mutually beneficial."

This 80 percent that is spent in the local Hattiesburg business community was projected at $17.3 million. The locational spending patterns by non-area residents are illustrated as follows: restaurant, $4.5 million; lodging, $2.9 million; retail shopping, $2.5 million; and some $3.8 million on other types of expenditures such as entertainment, transportation, and retail sales on food/beverage.

Of all the expenditures made by out-of-town residents over the football season, the majority (72 percent) was spent in the local community, within 20 miles of Hattiesburg. Another 19 percent of all out-of-town fans expenditures was spent outside the local community but still within Mississippi. Nine percent was spent out-of-state.

As many as 71 percent traveled more than 100 miles and 11 percent traveled over 300 miles. The majority (89 percent) of these fans traveled by car, five percent traveled by motor home or camper and three percent traveled by airplane.

Fifty-five percent of the fans who traveled to Hattiesburg spent one or more nights away from home as part of their football weekend. The majority (61 percent) stayed in a local hotel or motel.

Over four percent of the out-of-town parties traveling to the football game included mem-

NEW SEYMOUR—The University of Southern Mississippi's mascot, "Seymour," is sporting a new costume this season. The new outfit required four months from start to finish, and the creator, Clare Hendrick, became attached to the "bouncy, lovable, huggy of an eagle." The $2,500 purchase was financed by the USM Alumni Association.

COMMUNITY

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1989-1C

SECTION

Bay woman devotes life to community service

BY DENA BISNETTE

When Mary Catherine Hogan Beyer, better known as May Beyer, moved to Bay St. Louis in 1946, she decided to give something back to her new community.

Since then, she has devoted herself to helping others here and throughout Hancock County.

In the process, Beyer has been honored several times and has been able to spread her spirit of volunteerism to the younger members of her family.

Beyer's late husband, Cmdr. Charles R. Beyer, U.S. Navy, retired to Bay St. Louis from St. Petersburg, Fla., and his wife's civic activities here began with the kinds of things mothers do while their children are growing up, including service to parent-teacher organizations, underprivileged children.

Beyer's top honor was in 1982, when the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce recognized her contributions by naming her as that year's Outstanding Citizen.

In addition, the United Way Campaign, now headed by her grandson Chuck Benvenuti, was dedicated to her this year.

Now 88 years old and retired, Beyer, a New Orleans native, has fond memories of the years when, as she puts it, she "was involved in everything."

Being already active in the community helped her get involved in the beginnings of United Way during the early 1960s.

A representative of the United Way in Gulfport called Beyer and asked her to help him

Center, then known as the Mississippi Test Facility, which helped the new organization in the early days when contributions were small.

Beyer's daughters, Betty Benvenuti and Margaret Burns, also remember their mother's work.

Burns, who has recently returned to Bay St. Louis to live after many years away, remembers it both when she was a child and when she visited home as an adult.

"Every time I came home, Mama was on the phone, talking to Ellis Cuevas, Mr. Norton Haas, Sr., Conrad Mauffray or Mrs. Ina Piazza. She was always working on something," Burns said.

"For years, we had the Heart Fund once a year. It was at the grassroots, what Mom did. She raised money to send young children from the community to Jackson to see doctors, bought Greyhound bus tickets for them and their parents, bought them a place to stay and paid for the doctors to see them," said Betty Benvenuti.

"I raised about $1400 a year, especially around Valentine's Day, when I gave teas," Beyer said, "and there was money many people just came up and gave to me."

"The doctors were so kind. They used to call me and tell me what their examinations showed."

"Back then when you did fundraising, you not only raised money, you worked directly with people," she said, describing the many door-to-door campaigns in which she participated for the various agencies with which she has worked.

There was also the Red Cross. "I've worked for Red Cross all my adult life," Beyer said, and when I moved here, one of the first things I did was go to work at the VA hospital in Gulfport.

"When we first moved here, we were restoring an old house. I remember people said, 'This town will never have any growth; this town will never amount to anything.' Now I read that this area is on top of the growth list in the south, and I like hearing that," she said.

Beyer liked Bay St. Louis so much she ran for mayor in 1956, when she was 54 years old, because she felt the town needed an active person.

"I had been here about 10 years at the time," she said.

"I didn't do well. I had to give 18 speeches, which was hard. I wrote them out and read all of them."

While she didn't like giving speeches, she met a large number of people and learned even more about what the community needed. She did not forget what she had heard.

Beyer pounded away on her old-fashioned Underwood typewriter, ghost-writing many articles for various people and trying to help raise funds for all types of community work.

"I used to write so much. I loved it. I used to say that if you wanted a job you'd come to me because I'd write you a reference."

She wrote a few references, but she also wrote lots of letters.

Remembering the United Way as an example, she said, "I usually sent 5,000 letters from my house, and then I'd send thank yous to everybody who had given even $1."

"I knew everybody so I always included a little personal note—'Hope Mary is feeling better.' When did you here from Johnny last?'"

Beyer's letters took a lot of time. So did some of her other projects, like the year she opened her home for the garden club's annual pilgrimage, or the time she went into business for herself.

Her husband was ill and she had to stay home, so she spent some of her time in the yard picking pecans from the 14 trees she had before Hurricane scout troops and and social work.

She was also working in some military-service related activities, such as the Navy Relief Society and the Gray Lady program at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Gulfport.

As the 1950s continued, Beyer became instrumental in starting the senior citizen program in Hancock County and the United Way, two of her favorite projects. She even ran for mayor once, in 1957, when, as she put it, "women didn't do those things."

Beyer has also been a member and past president of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, a member of League of Women Voters and Hancock County Heart Fund chairperson for 14 years.

She also worked with retarded children, Gulf Coast Mental Health Association and a summer camp program for organize a Hancock County United Way.

"I had headed several drives, but he knew me from the Heart Fund. We started in Ray's Restaurant on Ulman Avenue, Bay St. Louis," she said.

The group had to establish a constitution and bylaws and go through a state registration procedure.

"I remember some of the people who were there—Johnny Bearden and I think James Ginn was there too. Ray Gordon was one of our first board members and became our first president. Powell (Red) Glass, who wrote our bylaws, was our second president," she said.

"I think United Way evolved from having so many drives every year," Beyer commented. "But the Heart Fund never did come in with the United Way."

Beyer said one of the biggest factors in setting up the United Way was John C. Stennis Space

Camille hit in 1969.

"I had wanted to go into some kind of business, but I couldn't find anything I wanted to do. I was out picking pecans and one fell down and hit me on the head. I said, 'God, you've solved my problem. I'll go into the pecan business.'"

"I didn't want to do pralines. I don't even like them; they're too sugary and heavy."

Someone bought her a large pot and she ended up making candy anyway.

"Business got too good; I had to quit. Every time somebody would call me, I'd say, 'I can't talk; the candy's almost ready.' I was sick of cleaning my kitchen."

"You know how I finally went out of business? I burned the pot. Talk about time-consuming, that was worse than United Way," Beyer said.

Beyer liked to work with children as well as adults, and she particularly liked working with Black children because, in the 1950s and 60s, "There was so little for them."

Taking a group to see a swimming pool in which they were not allowed to swim, Beyer got the idea for a summer camp in conjunction with Camp Onward and helped to start it. Because many of the financially underprivileged had no swimwear, Beyer began collecting various sizes of it to give the children, and her daughters remember it on the porch during the summer.

Another group of people Beyer particularly enjoyed was the elderly, and government funding provided to the county after Hurricane Camille became an opportunity for them. Beyer organized Hancock County's Retired Senior Volunteer Program, which she headed until a few years ago, and was also instrumental in starting the senior citizens' program, which she hired Eve McDonald to direct; McDonald is still the director today.

In 1971, Beyer put her typewriter to work again, helping to obtain national recognition for Arnette Giles of Pearlinton, a woman who had accepted about 40 retarded, abandoned and needy children into her home. Later, after having earned her high school equivalency at age 58 in order to begin part-time college-level courses in special education, Giles helped operate the county's first school for the retarded, which was one of the first United Way agencies in Hancock County.

Beyer said Giles was about 70 years old when she received a national volunteer award.

Beyer herself remains modest about the honors she has received but said she misses being able to be involved in community service, from which she was forced to retire about two years ago due to health reasons. She has continued to serve on the RSVP Advisory Council, however, and is secretary of the United Way.

She said she can see the spirit of volunteerism she felt continuing among others.

"At first, I hardly ever found anybody who liked volunteer work," Beyer commented, "but people seem to be doing more of it now and are giving more generously."

1988's United Way campaign, dedicated to Beyer, surpassed its goal

Beginning Jan. 15 through Feb. 9, various artists from Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana

Some of these classes being offered include keyboard and guitar, Victorian script writing, square dancing, rock painting, flower arrangement, music, voice, fiddle, drama, poetry, story telling, puppeteering and many more.

The committee for the project has worked to get as many varied artists as possible in order to expose students to arts and crafts they haven't had the chance to see and experience.

Lavera Warren of Diamondhead is coordinator of the program.

For more information, or to volunteer services as an artist for the students of Hancock County, contact Warren at 255-7713 or Marie Stewart at 467-5891.

Cancer Society headquarters the setting for Dec. 5 open house

The Harrison County Unit of the American Cancer Society will host an open house at the district headquarters, 182A Debays Road in Biloxi on Tuesday, Dec. 5 from 4 until 8 p.m.

This will be the first time that many of the volunteers from other units in the district (Jackson, Hancock and Pearl River counties) will have an opportunity to visit the headquarters.

In addition to the American Cancer Society volunteers, anyone who has supported the society's efforts, or received assistance from it, is invited to participate in the open house, according to Phyllis Moran, district executive director. Harrison County hotels and hospitals have agreed to provide refreshments for this event.

The American Cancer Society promotes public and professional education relating to the causes and treatment of cancer and continued research to fight this dread disease. Unfortunately, more than 420,000 people will die of cancer each year in the United States; but some 134,000 of those lives could be saved by earlier detection and diagnosis combined with prompt, proper treatment using current knowledge and techniques.

THE GRE

Useful pine straw should be shared

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

If pine trees are truly evergreen, why are lawns, driveways and roofs covered with brown pine needles? There's a fairly common misunderstanding of the word "evergreen."

Some people think it means always green and never shedding. Others realize it means the plant, shrub or tree will always have some green in contrast to a deciduous tree that drops its leaves in fall and sports nothing but bare limbs and twigs all winter.

On the other hand some deciduous trees such as sawtooth oaks and beeches hang onto their brown leaves all winter and let go of them as the buds swell and new green leaves push out in spring.

Whether evergreen or deciduous, if you or your neighbors have trees and it's windy, you'll wind up raking leaves or pine needles. An electric or gas powered blower can considerably ease the clean-up job. Blowers help with pine needles on a drive or patio but forget about using them for pine needles on the lawn.

Pine needles, more commonly called straw, are one of Mississippi's best and most widely available mulching materials. It is light in weight, usually free of weed seeds and other contaminants, absorbs little or no moisture, decomposes slowly, doesn't pack, is attractive and doesn't wash away in heavy rain.

In Mississippi Gardens

Have you noticed there isn't an equitable distribution of pine straw among home owners? If there was, there wouldn't be as many vehicles leaving new, tree barren neighborhoods on sunny weekends in October, November and December on pine straw foraging trips to older neighborhoods.

Those in search must have perfect timing; allowing enough time for home owners with pines to rake their yards, sweep their roofs and get it all bagged, but not enough time for someone else to beat them to it.

As one of the "haves" when it comes to pine straw, I've dealt with a lot of "have nots." Just recently while cleaning the roof and front yard of pine straw, I spied a "have not" heading slowly down the street. A neighbor had just placed several large plastic garbage bags of pine straw at the curb.

This particular "have not"—following proper "have not" etiquette—went to the door and asked for the bags of straw. In possession of just a partial load, the "have not" drove by slowly eyeing my unfinished efforts. It's a rare "have not" who offers assistance in the gathering or bagging process.

Being a "have" with less than proper "have" etiquette, I don't bag my straw but heap it at the base of the drive in total disregard of city instructions. The city refuses to pick up non-bagged straw, but that's OK with me because I don't plan for my straw to end up in the landfill.

It belongs around somebody's shrubbery, on flower beds and piled up for use in next summer's vegetable garden. Not bagging it is my way of making sure someone who really wants the pine straw gets it.

Believe it or not, pine straw has even become a business in some places. Bales of pine straw for mulching can be purchased in garden centers around the state. I don't know the size of the industry in Mississippi, but farmers and landowners in North Carolina are reported to earn from $15 million to $20 million each year from the sale of pine straw.

Longleaf pine is preferred to loblolly because the longer needles are easier to bale, but loblolly pine straw is fine for bagging or hauling and once on the ground, the mulched plants don't now the difference."

FACTS ABOUT BEEF

MYTH:

Beef contains more cholesterol than chicken.

FACT:

Three ounces of trimmed, cooked lean beef (from about 4 ounces raw beef) contain 76 milligrams of cholesterol. By comparison, the same amount of roasted chicken, with skin removed, also contains 76 milligrams. Pork contains 79 mg., flounder, 59 mg., shrimp, 129 mg., and turkey, 65 mg. The American Heart Association recommends a limit of 300 mg. of cholesterol per day. A 3-ounce serving of beef provides about 25% of this allowance.

M•E•A•T
Simply SENSATIONAL

MYTH:

Diets recommended by health organizations do not include beef.

FACT:

The American Heart Association, in 1986, stated, "cutting down on saturated fat and cholesterol doesn't mean cutting out pork and beef. It simply means being more selective. Taking the time to find the leanest cuts of meat and asking your butcher to trim away as much fat as possible." A 3-ounce serving of lean, red meat supplies calories, fat, saturated fat and cholesterol in amounts far below the limits recommended by scientific and health organizations. Beef will fit into most meal plans.
